TRAPPINGS
Stories of Women, Power and Clothing

TWO GIRLS WORKING
Tiffany Ludwig + Renee Fleckholtz

Project Description
Two Girls Working is a collaboration of artists, Tiffany Ludwig and Renee Fleckholtz. Their project Trappings is an interview-based artwork, which asks a simple question, ‘what do you wear that makes you feel powerful?’ Two Girls Working has sought responses from diverse groups of women at interview sessions in each region of the United States. Over 1000 women have gathered in private homes, classrooms, loungerooms, and community spaces to present their complex stories about power, clothing, and identity.

Exhibition Description
The Regina Gouger Miller Gallery is hosting the launch of Two Girls Working’s national traveling exhibition. Although this project began with a question about clothing, Trappings is not about fashion. Clothing is simply the vehicle to access a larger dialogue facilitated by the artists. Through photography, audio audio, video installations, and project ephemera, visitors encounter the diverse range of issues women present related to power and identity.

REGINA GOUGER MILLER GALLERY
JULY 7 - AUGUST 4, 2006
OPENING RECEPTION: JULY 7, 5-8PM
Purnell Center for the Arts, Carnegie Mellon University
5000 Forbes Avenue, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania
412-396-6500 | www.cmu.edu/galleries
Gallery hours: Tuesdays – Fridays | 10:00 AM – 5:00 PM

WHAT DO YOU WEAR THAT MAKES YOU FEEL POWERFUL?

TWO GIRLS WORKING
TRAPPINGS
Stories of Women, Power and Clothing

2006.06.26 - 7.04谷爱: 5.35c.png

REGINA GOUGER MILLER GALLERY
JULY 7 - AUGUST 4, 2006
OPENING RECEPTION: JULY 7, 5-8PM
Purnell Center for the Arts, Carnegie Mellon University
5000 Forbes Avenue, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania
412-396-6500 | www.cmu.edu/galleries
Gallery hours: Tuesdays – Fridays | 10:00 AM – 5:00 PM