For additional information about the exhibition, please see the Whatever It Takes brochure.

FLOOR 2
counter-clockwise from elevator:

1. Cosley Football Player (Roethlispoodle)
   Photo by Ren Netherland/Animal Photography, dog groomed by its owner Justine Cosley
   Photograph
   20' tall x 24" wide
   2009

2. Steelers Hair Helmet
   Design by Little Willie, photograph by David Yellen, from the book Hair Wars, 20' tall x 24" wide, 2006
   • This photo features a design by a local hair stylist.
   • This item is for sale. Contact miller-gallery@andrew.cmu.edu for details.

3. The Socio-Economic Underpinnings of Steeler Nation
   Adam Atkinson & Christopher Smalley, approx. 13 min., video, 2010
   • Professor Atkinson gives the class a working definition for "sports nation." (Hint: Only the Steelers really have one.)

4. SuperFan
   by Lem Apperson, 2009
   Fabric, foam muscle suit, 5' tall x 54" wide x 6" deep
   • Apperson made the costume the night before watching SuperBowl XLIII in a crowd divided between the two teams.
   • This item is for sale. Contact miller-gallery@andrew.cmu.edu for details.

5. The Black and Golden Calf
   Suzanne Werder Trenney, 2008
   • This character has its own online persona, and claims to be the “son of the Steel Steer and the Heinz Heifer”.

6. Live from La Botticella Steelers Bar in Rome, Italy
   • This is a bar in Rome where fans from across Italy as well as from Pittsburgh, including Pittsburgh based university students (on Rome campuses) go to watch games.
   • Giovanni Poggi, the bar owner, has never lived in the U.S., but visits Pittsburgh every Thanksgiving to attend Steelers games.

12. The Immaculate Re-Creation
   Produced by the Miller Gallery at Carnegie Mellon University for the Whatever It Takes exhibition
   Interactive installation with video projection of a YouTube clip of the famous 1972 Super Bowl play "The Immaculate Reception" with inserted footage of exhibition visitors re-creating the catch; videocamera and tripod; opposing team members made of paper and cardboard sliding on metal and wood track; string; football; paint and fake grass.
   406" long x 195" wide x 150" high
   2010

   [Ask Gallery Personnel for assistance]
   - Gallery visitors, with the assistance of gallery personnel, can record themselves catching the football and re-creating the 4-second section of what is known as one of the most famous plays in the history of American football.
   - Once a week the best footage of visitors catching the football will be added to the projected video.
